TOPICS OF THE DAY.

Says "Carp" of the Cleveland Leader:

I saw the other day a bronze cast from the Lincoln life mask which the Sculp tor Volk took during the April in 1860 before Lincoln was nominated. The casts have just been made, and one will probably be given to the Government. Only a limited number of these casts have been made, and the one I saw was in the hands of one of Mr. Lincoln's most intimate and dearest friends. It represents with a wonderful reality the features and spirit of the great President, The face, front of the head, the ears, and sinewy neck are there just as they were when Lincoln was alive. In 1860 the President wore no beard, and the face is represented as smoothly shaven. There are two little moles on each side of the nose, and it seems to me that the lines of thought and worry are not so deeply cut as in his later portraits. It was in April, 1860, when Lincoln was trying a case in Chicago that Volk got him to sit for him, and at this time, two months before he was nominated, he took this life mask. A mask of this kind, you know, is taken by putting a lot of plaster of paris on the face so that it covers it entirely. It is then allowed to harden, and when taken off it gives an exact mold of the face. Volk was very careful, in putting the plaster on Lincoln, to leave his eyes and nostrils free. He left it on about an hour, and then pulled it off slowly and easily, tearing at the same time some of the fine hairs off the temple, which made Lincoln's eyes water. He then got Lincoln to sit for him and took a sketch of him in clay. What a sculptor calls sketching is modeling a statue in the first place in clay or some material just for the time. Lincoln came and sat for Mr. Volk to sketch him, and this cast, which is the result, is undoubtedly the best ever made. One of the casts will, I understand, be given to the Government and be put in the National Museum. I saw also the bronze cast of Lincoln's right hand which Volk made at the same time. It is an immense bony fist, tightly clasped around a brazen stick, and cut off about the middle of the wrist. Volk took the model of this hand on Sunday, and he had trouble in getting some kind of a stick or piece of pasteboard for Lincoln went out to the woodshed and sawed off a piece of a broomstick, and it is this plece of broom-handle which Volk is now modeled in brass. of the head, the ears, and sinewy neck are there just as they were when Lin-

"How wonderfully like other men Presidents are!" exclaimed a far-West-ern lawyer to the Indianapolis Journal's correspondent. "I was at the White House," continued he, "for an hour early this morning, by special appointment, and in the course of a talk of that length I gleaned a great deal about the general trend of Mr. Cleveland's mind. I was surprised at the way he talks. Why, after we talked over the business we had to settle, the President began talking about miscellaneous matters. I found him just like other men. He converses about little things and domestic and personal matters as freely and ordinarily as a frontier farmer." Of all the many peopl and things visitors to the Capital escounter, none surprise or disappoint them so much as the President. t seems to be the idea that the Presi-It seems to be the idea that the President is a very extraordinary personage—yet the very work of a President makes him a common man. He assumes to arbitrate or dictate to petty political affairs of the whole country so far as they relate to Federal offices. He could not give much thought to matters requiring investigation if he wanted to. So long as the functions of the Presidency are administered as at present there need be no tunctions of the Presidency are adminis-tered as at present there need be no fear of imperialism or the drifting away of the Chief Executive from the people, and so long as the office re-quires so much contact with all classes of people there will not be much seriousness on the part of the President, and the character of that officer will continue to surprise those officer will continue to surprise those who have not met him.

When I came to Washington, about 1867, to live here permanently, says "Gath" in the Cincinnati Enquirer, there was but one man in the city who was building to any extent, and that was Governor Shepherd. One other person in the District, Mr. Todd, whose laughter is the wife of John Jay Knox, was buying real estate, and was by many thought to be rather a wild man for doing so. The improvement of the District, effected about twelve years ago, has begotten a large class of self-reliant business men in Washingself-reliant business men in Washington, whose competitive energies are directed to acquiring property. The Committee of Congress for the District of Columbia prepares the appropriation bills and the general legislation for the city. The Commissioners have their little capitol and rooms and their engineers and contractors. Everything is noiseless, and yet there is quite as much alertness to observe defects in the city of Washington as in any other city. The difference is that in this case, where defects are pointed out, they are promptly remedied, cut, they are promptly remedied, whereas in cities like New York it is almost impossible to have anything done until it becomes a matter of crime and sensation. The future growth of this city under its present institutions will probably have a mild influence upon the forms of municipal govern-ments in the United States. If Washington thrives under the present sys-tem, and its success shows an increase greater than that of cities with a gen greater than that of cities with a gen-eral suffrage, there may in time be movements for commission govern-ments in many of our large cities. Everybody knows that the city of New York would be immeasurably better off under a commission appointed with due regard to the rights of residents and strangers. A city as far ahead of all others in the country as New York might with propriety have a represent ative of the United States in its commission. It almost always happens where a West Point officer is given charge of municipal things that there is more honesty, more efficiency, and, on the whole, more popularity.

General J. A. Williamson of Washington, the former Commissioner of the General Land Office, was in New York a day or two ago, says the Tribune, and was standing in front of the desk at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, when a man several inches taller than he, straight as an Indian and of comparatively slender build, stepped up behind Two long arms were thrown around the General while the new-comer, who was ex-Governor Warmoth of Louisiana, sang out in the General's ear, "Column right. Get behind the trees." When the General turned about and recognized his old army comrade the Governor said, "I say, General, you couldn't get as much protection from that Lookout Mountain sapling now as you did the day of the fight." The General laughed as he repiled: "I took to a woodpile as it was, before we got out of that. But I have not grown so much stouter. It is you who have grown stouter. It is you who have grown so much stouter. It is you who have grown stout." The Governor rejoined: "Well, I might easily get thicker than I was that day. I was behind a little sapling that was shot all to pieces. I stretched myself up and up to the fullest height of which I was able to make myself and to the least possible breadth. I was never so tall before or since as I was never so that before of since as I was that day while trying to get as much of my body as possible be-hind that sapling. I do remember that you had a woodpile which I cavied you. The boys were all grabbing roots

you. The boys about that time." Says the correspondent of the Troy Times: "Probably the strongest and most wholesome affection between any two wholesome affection between any two men in the Senate exists between Saw-yer and John Spooner. Sawyer looks upen John with all the fondness and admiration of a father, and he treats him as such, and the junior Senator looks up to Philetus Sawyer with an almost filial regard."

One of the most unique and artistic relics of Japanese art at the Legation here and forming a chief attraction in the rooms, says "Fairly" in the Nash-ville American, consists of two screens over 300 years old, taken from the invader Jaikio. In the strange and wonderful blending of like colors on a dark golden background, it conveys an idea of moonrise as seen through a tangled mass of grasses and rushes, tangled mass of grasses and rushes, nothing more nor less, and yet they are strangely beautiful in artistic effect. Here and there and everywhere are many grotesque conceptions of ancient deities, and one of special interest is a faded panel with many queer traceries and characters, surrounding a disk-crowned Japanese god. It is by Tsunnobon and considered very fine. The tray upon which Madame's visitors' cards lay was explained as the gift of the Empress to Madame Kuki, and is therefore, much appreciated.

THE THEATRES.

Miss Rosina Vokes, with her London Miss Rosina Vokes, with her London company, will appear at Albaugh's to-night and to-morrow uight in "Our Bitterest Foe," "My Milliner's Bill" and "A Pantomime Rehearsal." On Saturday afternoon and evening "In Honor Bound" will be substituted for the first. This charming actress has made as much of a sensation this season as she did when the old "Vokes Family" were in their prime. Crowded houses will no doubt prevail during her engagement.

"Check" is announced for the last three evenings of the week at the National. This is the play in which Mr. Reed made his success as a star. Mr. Reed, in addition to be-ing an excellent comedian, is a first-class singer, and the musical numbers are made a feature of the play.

The company presenting "Tourists" at The company presenting "Tourists" at Barton & Logan's this week comprises some very good specialists. This house is achieving the reputation of being the home of comedy in this city. Nothing dull or prosy is presented. A man with the blues should stroll in and see Sturges, Kirke and Byrne in their amusing selections. If they do not make him forget his troubles, the vivacious acting of Misses Adu St. Claire, Ida Lillian Abrams and May Jackson will certainly drive dull care away.

The beautiful melodrama, "The Silve King," will be seen at Albaugh's Monday evening next with an unusually strong cast headed by the favorite actor, Frank C. Bangs. The Wallack's Theatre scenery will be used and every attention paid to detail. "The Silver King" is one of the best melodramas now before the public. It has more material, with literary and dramatic merit, than any play for the last century.

The Texas cowboy planist, Mr. A. O. Ba Sunday evening next in a grand concert. Sunday evening next in a grand concert. His performance is pronounced by competent critics, the greatest musical phenomenon of the age. He has never received any instruction, and yet he plays the most difficult and elaborate compositions for the plano forte. One of his most remarkable feats is to play with a cloth spread over the keys, entirely obscuring them. Wherever he has appeared he has created a profound sensation. Reserved seats are now on sale at Brentano's book store.

"Fun on the Bristol" is the attraction announced at Herzog's Opera-House for next week. This is an old comedy, replete with fun and will be put on by a company which has made a decided hit in it. There is fun in store for all who visit this popular resort

Mr. Joseph Jefferson will commence an engagement of one week at the New Na-tional Theatre next Monday evening, pre-senting "The Cricket on the Hearth" and senting "The Cricket on the Hearth" and "Lend Me Five Shillings" Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, and "Rip Van Winkle" the balance of the week. He opens his season here after a long rest, his last performance having been given in this theatre last December. To those who have seen Mr. Jefferson no recommendation is necessary. He stands alone in the line of comedy that he makes his specialty, and is always supported by the best company that can be gotten together. Reserved seats are now to be had at the box office.

Musical Notes.

The symphonic concert at Congregational Church last night was well attended, and as thoroughly appreciated as was the one the day before. The programme was one the day before. The programme was heavier, but none the less pleasing. Wag ner's overture to "Tristan" was well calculated to show the strength of the string portion of the orchestra, while Lisat's "Hungarian Rhapsody" brought out the full force of the orchestra. The beautiful shading and phrasing of these works excited general admiration. Madame Fursch-Madl renewed the favorable impression her great voice and dramatic singing had heretofore won for her.

The friends of Miss Katie V. Wilson have tofore wen for her.

The friends of Miss Katle V. Wilson have tendered her a complimentary concert to take place on Thursday next at Universitst Church. She will be assisted by many well known people, among whom are Misses Detweller, Johnson, Mrs. H. H. Mills, E. J. Whipple and Professor Bischoff. This young lady has freely given her services to many charitable causes and the public should show its appreciation of her efforts by a hearty support. Tickets can be had at Ellis' music store.

Miss Kate N. Scott, the charming so.

Ellis' music store.

Miss Kate N. Scott, the charming so-prano of Calvary Baptist Church, has been engaged to sing for the Mozart Society of Richmond on Mouday next. This is a hand-some compliment to this young lady, whose beautiful voice and exquisite method have placed her in the front rank of local singers. The same lady will sing at the public recital of the Georgetown Orchestra on the 20th instant.

Mrs. Ada Lancaster, a brilliant pianist and the pupil of Sir Jules Benedict, and Madame Magdalena Schiller, will give a complimentary piano recital at the warerooms of Wm. Knabe & Co. this evening. She will be assisted by Mrs. Julia Schayer and Miss Florence Hill. The programme is selected with a view to showing the execution and capacity of the pianiste.

LET us be thankful that any poor sufferer can buy with twenty-five cents a bottle of Salvation Oil.

"Can February March?" asked the pun-ster, with a sickly smile. "Perhaps not," replied the quiet man, "but April May." SENATOR VEST said in the U. S. Senate: "St. Jacob's Oil takes away all pain."

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting at the National Rifles' Armory.

An overflowing and enthusiastic labor meeting was held at the National Rifles' Hall last night and listened to a discussion of labor questions by prominent men. Representative O'Neill, as chairman of th meeting, after a short speech introduce Mr. George E. McNeill of Boston, who do

Mr. George E. MeNeill of Hoston, who delivered an eloquent address, presenting the views of the Knights of Labor upon the industrial question. Senators Blair and Eustis, Representatives Foran, Tarsney and Hurd, Mr. Frank M. Hurd and others followed with addresses.

Messrs. J. F. Scagge, S. H. Bell, D. J. Munn, L. H. Patterson and W. H. Kelly, appointed a committee on resolutions, reported a series of resolutions which were unanimously adopted, that sympathy be extended to fellow-laborers everywhere in their efforts to secure shorter working hours; asking Congress to abolish public contract work; the enforcement of the eighthour law in Government work shops; the prevention of imported labor and the immigration of Chinese to this country; that the power of glant corporate monopolies begunded and no enable lands. power of giant corporate monopolies be curbed, and no public lands to be given curbed, and no public lands to be given railroads.

The East St. Louis massacre was denounced as murder, and the arrest and trial of the perpetrators demanded; the injustice in the relations between capital and labor, as evidenced in the recent railroad strike, was emphasized, and, in conclusion, that as supporters of law and order, all acts of violence and destruction of property were condemned.
